INTRODUCTION

The franchise restaurant segment has evolved into a large and dynamic segment of the foodservice industry. In 1985, franchise restaurant sales reached $47.7 billion -- an impressive 42.9 percent of all eating place sales. In comparison, franchise restaurant sales accounted for only 21 percent of total eating place sales in 1970. The number of franchise units has also grown tremendously. In 1985 there were 73,892 franchise units across the country -- more than double the number in 1970.

Franchise restaurants also make up an impressive proportion of the total franchise industry. Here's how the franchise restaurant segment compares with the total 17 franchise business categories:

Employment:	Franchise restaurants ranked number one in total employment in 1984, accounting for 38.8 percent of all franchise employment.
Units:	Restaurants ranked second out of the 17 franchise businesses in total units and operated 16.2 percent of all franchise establishments, up from 15.9 percent in 1984.
Sales:	Restaurants ranked third in sales, reporting 8.8 percent of total franchise sales.
International franchising:	Restaurants ranked number one in total number of U.S. franchise units in foreign countries and accounted for 20.3 percent of the total foreign franchise establishments in 1985. In 1984 restaurants ranked second and accounted for 21.1 percent of total foreign franchise establishments.

This Statistical Appendix provides an indepth look at the growth of the franchise restaurant industry through 1985, as well as franchise operators' projections for 1986 and 1987. The information in this report is based on data from the annual Franchising in the Economy survey which is published by the Services Industry Division of the U.S. Department of Commerce. This year's survey, Franchising in the Economy, 1985-1987, was completed by 470 restaurant franchisors representing 99 percent of the total franchise restaurant sales and establishments in the U.S.

The sales and unit figures for 1985 and projections for 1986 and 1987 reported here are representative only of the 470 franchise restaurant firms surveyed, and do not include any new or established firms that may have begun franchising in 1985 and any present firms going out of business or abandoning the franchise system.
